1 in 5 experience a mental health problem

This number increases if sub-clinical experiences are taken into account

Less than 20% will receive appropriate treatment

Young people experience developmental and contextual stressors for which they need support

Preferred channels involve social media – typically a smartphone, on which they can talk or type

The Demographic Makeup of Young People
Who Seek Help Through "Live Chat"

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Lesson in Acknowledging our Biases

- 1/3 of "Live Chat" clients identified with a non-dominant ethno-cultural identity
- 43% identified as immigrant or 1st generation
- 36% identified with non-heterosexual orientations

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Lessons in What Chatters are Dealing With

- Phone clients conceptualized relationship problems and “Live Chat” clients conceptualized mental health problems
- Objective qualitative analysis showed complex developmental and contextual problems
- YSR showed high incidence of clinically relevant mental health problems

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Problem or Situation Topic as Reported by Participants

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

There is still emotional abuse from my mother and step-father but no more sexual or physical abuse since I moved in with my dad.

A few months ago my bf killed himself on my birthday

Je sais pas si je suis en depression... beaucoup de gens autour de moi pense que je suis.. Je pense au suicide constamment. . Ca devient quotidien

Chat Transcripts & Collaborative Interactions Scale

- Top and bottom deciles of evaluation scores
- There are both client and counsellor contributions when counselling goes poorly (bottom decile) and when it goes well (top decile)
- Collaborative Interactions Scale (CIS)* – focuses on ruptures and repairs in the therapeutic alliance

\(Colli & Liangiardi, 2009)*

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

When Counselling Goes Poorly – Clients' Contributions

Indirect Ruptures

- Self-critical or self-blaming in response to counsellors
- Respond to counsellors in acquiescent manner
- Give short, non-elaborative responses to open-ended questions

Direct Ruptures

- Strongly refused or stated discomfort with counsellors' interventions
- Sarcastic or caustic toward counsellors
- Suddenly terminated chats

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Self-critical or self-blaming in response to counsellors

I hear you. But before giving up, don't you think there are others things that you could try?

I'm going to be a coward and respond with a no wow...so now I have EXTRA respect for you that you were able to reach out for support tonight @ that takes a lot.. I mean that.... what motivated you to get on chat?

Yeah. Don't respect me too soon until you know me.

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Short, non-elaborative responses to OEQs

Last week, okay. And how are you dealing with all of this?

i tried to ignore it

You try to ignore it, okay. And how is that going? How does it help?

for a while i forget about it all

So how can I be the most helpful for you tonight, with all of this going on?

i dont know

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Acquiescent responses to counsellors

yeah

i guess

okay

Strong refusal of counsellor intervention

... the best thing is to call 911 so that someone can come and help you...

no

If you give me your information, I can do that for you

I'm just going to go

... you have the right to feel safe and be believed and listened to... by someone who can get to you and help tonight...

can I just talk to you

I'm gonna give you our number 1 800 669 6868 which you can call 24/7... or you can call Children's Aid in Ontario anytime and tell them what is happening... someone who cares will come and help you

I hate the Children's Aid

---

---

---

---

---

Sarcastic/caustic responses & sudden terminations

Ok...so being homeless leads to other consequences do they not?

No duh, I can figure that much out

... in any case, counselling is not about providing advice

Again, that's stupid. Thank you for your time, but you're just further pissing me off

Also If you feel like cutting during the hardest times, you can always call us here at Kids Help Phone so that together we can help you

Thanks anyways

CONVERSATION TERMINATED

23

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Intellectualization, failure to focus, pressing on topics

I've always wanted tattoos and piercings. Tattoos can wait. They're permanent, piercings are not but i guess we dont' really have control over our parents other than to be able to influence them through conversations

My mother doesn't listen to anything I have to say if she's against it. To me, that's abusing her parental power over me.

Unfortunately as children we don't have the same rights as adults.

I'm willing to discuss things, but she has to be willing to listen you know?

Our parents are responsible for raising us and instilling us with values

Missed positive interactions

- Explaining or redefining the tasks/goals of the session

Well, we can spend about 45 minutes or so chatting about whatever you like. Is the goal for tonight to figure out how you feel about your boyfriend, or do you want to focus on something else?

That's really a lot of different things you've got going on right now! No wonder you're so upset. What do you think will be the most helpful for us to focus on in this chat?

At first you mentioned wanting to figure out what to do about this problem. But it seems like you have a lot of feelings to work through first. Do you think that's how you'd like to use the rest of our time together tonight?

When Counselling Goes Well – Communicating Relationship Factors* in “Live Chat”

1. Warmth
2. Empathy
3. Trustworthiness
4. Genuineness
5. Attention/attentiveness

*Martin, D. J., Garske, J. P. & Davis, M. K. (2000). Relation of the therapeutic alliance with outcome and other variables: A meta-analytic review. Journal of Consulting and Clinical Psychology, 68(3), 438-450.

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

WARMTH

- Anxiety/depression associated with cognitive distortions where neutral and positive statements perceived as negative
- Deliberately communicate warmth
- Judicious use of emoticons
:) vs ;)
- Empathic sustains/write out vocalizations “Ahhh... I see.” “Hmmm. I get it.”
- Descriptive immediacy*
[Leaning forward in my chair and nodding my head in agreement]

*(Murphy & Mitchell, 2009)

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

EMPATHY

- Deliberately communicated by writing out non-verbals available in F2F and E2E contacts
"Whew!" "Ahhhh." "Unggh..."
- Emotional bracketing***
"Wow! [smiling with eyes wide at you]"
- Paraphrasing and checking in
"You feel super sad because it's so hard to be without him. Do I have that right?"

*(Murphy & Mitchell, 2009)

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

TRUSTWORTHINESS

- No time savers – check assumptions
e.g., Do you really know how other professionals will respond?
- Professionalism
Use only organization-approved resources/referrals.
Stay within your competence.
Optics are important (spelling, punctuation, full sentences, etc...)

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

GENUINENESS

- Allow your personality/style to shine! Write the way you talk.
"Oh wow. Yeah. Just wow."
- Use the keyboard.
underline    italicize    bold
s l o w   d o w n   f o r   e m p h a s i s
What. The. Heck?
ALL CAPS IS YELLING!
- Avoid jargon and trying to use teen slang.
- Use space holding utterances.
"Huh." "Hmmm." "I see." "Riiiiiiiiight."

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

ATTENTIVENESS

- "Listen" for cues as you would in F2F/E2E.
Accents = spelling, punctuation, short forms, slang, emoticons, pauses, writing level
- Consider the username.
- Consider other info routinely gleaned by your organization.
- Professionalism
Avoid multitasking!
If you wouldn't do it in F2F, don't do it in "Live Chat."

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Implications for Chat Counselling Training

- Range of individual factors demands broad cultural competence – respectful inquiry
- Constant practice of checking assumptions due to lack of auditory and visual cues to group membership
- Telepresence techniques (e.g., Mitchell & Murphy, 2009; Fang et al., 2013)
- Self-care and organizational practices to combat burnout/vicarious trauma due to content on chat

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Implications for Chat Counselling Training

- Training in CBT to respond to cognitive distortions associated with depression and anxiety symptoms
- Spot acquiescence
- Conciliatory statements to prevent sudden disengagement (involves extreme attention to countertransference)
- Focus on transparent and deliberate communication on chat

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Conclusions

- Use of emerging technologies is increasing and youth prefer social media for information and help seeking
- Technology allows youth to access help they may otherwise go without
- Guidance for professional staff to be competent using these media – always a generation behind!
- This research provides guidance to other technology based outreach programs for youth and the international child helpline community
