MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTORS

2010-2011 was the Centre's 19th year of operation. This report highlights the Centre's continued growth and development in several areas related to education and research on violence against women and children.

Our Centre continues to steer the development and promotion of the Neighbours Friends and Families campaign in the province of Ontario. With the introduction of new workplace legislation in Ontario which requires mandatory training regarding workplace violence, CREVAWC has developed the Make it our Business training program to address domestic violence in the workplace within the requirements of the legislation.

We hosted a national think tank on child sexual abuse and a national think tank on the development of domestic homicide death review committees. Additionally, we hosted two provincial conferences on collaboration and communication regarding threat assessment for the domestic violence coordinating committees in the province.

Our Centre participated in an Ivey Consulting Project. The project was designed to assist the Centre in pursuing a long-term strategy to fund research on domestic violence along with its impact on the workplace. We are excited about the recommendations made in this project and will work with our Management Committee to move a plan forward.

All of our efforts remain focused on the same vision: a commitment to the development and application of knowledge on the prevention of violence against women and children through the promotion of innovation, collaborative relationships, and equality.

This annual report highlights our efforts in 2010-2011 as reflected in various activities, grants and publications. We acknowledge the support of our partners, management committee, advisory committee, research associates, funders and our extended family in the Faculty of Education. As Centre Directors we appreciate the generous support of the University of Western Ontario that has made our Centre sustainable and a model for similar centres around the world.

Community Director

OVERVIEW OF 2010-2011

The Centre is committed to research and education activities directed at preventing violence against women and children in our community, provincially, nationally and internationally. We have worked diligently to enhance and expand our network of partnerships. Our current research activities and projects this year have focused on threat assessment and risk management activities; prevention of violence in schools, workplaces and communities; and prevention of domestic homicides. This work is well supported and recognized within our immediate community, provincially and nationally. We continue to explore the impact of childhood and adult trauma as well as the health care and justice system response to abuse in collaboration with our Canadian partners. We continue to support undergraduate and graduate students in their research.

This Annual Report reflects the activities of the 2010 calendar year but also includes January – April of 2011. This allows us to align the activities and financial statements with those of the University of Western Ontario. Future annual reports will be based on the University of Western Ontario fiscal year (May 1 – April 30).

The report that follows details our research and education efforts. Some of the highlights in 2010-2011 include the following:

- 7 new grants representing an investment of $1,429,021.00
- 2 provincial conferences that brought academics and professionals from multiple disciplines and systems to address threat assessment and risk management strategies
- 2 major think-tanks on prevention of domestic homicides and child sexual abuse
- 12 community forums for Western faculty, students and community agencies
- 23 presentations in other communities
- 37 television, radio and newspaper interviews
- Engagement of over 800 undergraduate students and 25 graduate students from Education and Health Sciences on emerging issues in research and practice on violence against women & children

VISION STATEMENT

The Centre is committed to the development and application of knowledge on the prevention of violence against women and children through the promotion of innovation, collaborative relationships, and equality.

MISSION STATEMENT

The Centre's role is to facilitate the collaboration of individuals, groups and institutions representing the diversity of the community to pursue research questions and training opportunities to understand and prevent abuse. It serves local, national and international communities by producing useful information and tools to assist in the daily work against violence toward women and children. We value our partners across the globe and across Canada as well as the essential work of our local community agencies. The partner we never overlook is Western and the many faculties and colleagues who work together with us on multiple projects and grants.

HISTORY

The Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women and Children (CREVAWC) was founded in 1992 as a collaborative venture between The University of Western Ontario, Fanshawe College and the London Coordinating Committee to End Women Abuse (a large organization comprised of violence against women service providers). The Centre was established in response to a federal study on the problem of violence against women, triggered by the 1989 murder of 14 women at École Polytechnique in Montreal.

CREVAWC joined the Faculty of Education at the University of Western Ontario in 2001. When the Centre moved to the Faculty of Education in 2001 there were 2.5 staff and $1 million from 2 grants. From 2002-2006 the Centre hosted smaller local conferences each year, a Research Day and a Speakers Series. At that time CREVAWC had no B Ed or M Ed students. In 2010-2011 the CREVAWC has 5 full-time staff with approximately $5 million in open grants. The Centre has hosted 6 major conferences and think-tanks, held more than 10 workshops with 10 Western partners, 12 community partners and 6 other universities in Canada. Faculty associated with the CREVAWC are involved in teaching violence prevention (safe schools) at the graduate and undergraduate level for the Faculty of Education as well as graduate student supervision and participation as thesis examiners.

RESEARCH PRIORITIES

The Centre initiates and seeks funding for projects relating to the following themes:

- Healthy relationships
- Violence and its impact on health and well being
- Gender inequality and its interactions with:
 - Racism
 - Ableism
 - Homophobia
 - Classism
 - Ageism
 - or other forms of social exclusion

The Centre conducts research and education that is relevant to practice, policy development and legislative reform:

- Families and intimate relationships
- Justice systems
- Educational systems
- Health and mental health care systems
- Social service systems
- Workplaces
- Communities and community institutions
- Anti-violence agencies

Activities and Approaches include:

Research:

- Participatory approaches
- Diverse research methodologies, including qualitative and quantitative designs
- Program development and evaluation
- Identification of emerging issues and important debates

- Interdisciplinary collaboration among community and academic researchers
- Dissemination of research findings: locally, provincially, nationally, internationally

Education:

- Public awareness
- Professional development
- Multidisciplinary curriculum development and implementation for undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs

Community Development:

- To build capacity for the development and implementation of anti-violence initiatives
- To support community-based programs
- To promote promising practices

Dr. Peter Jaffe

Peter Jaffe is a Professor in the Faculty of Education at the University of Western Ontario and the Academic Director of the Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women & Children. He is the Director Emeritus for the Centre for Children and Families in the Justice System, a children's mental health centre specializing in issues which bring children and families into the justice system in London, Ontario. He has co-authored many books, chapters and articles related to children, families and the justice system including Children of Battered Women, Child Custody & Domestic Violence and Working Together to End Domestic Violence.

He has presented workshops across the USA, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and Europe to various groups including judges, lawyers, mental health professionals and educators. Dr. Jaffe has been an expert witness in three Ontario inquests into domestic homicides. He is a founding member of the Chief Coroner's Domestic Violence Death Review Committee. A significant portion of Dr. Jaffe's research is on the effectiveness of the Fourth R program. The Fourth R is a school-based violence prevention program which is included in the Ontario Ministry of Education's Registry of Bullying Prevention Programs and has been implemented in over 1000 schools across Canada. Dr. Jaffe is Principal Investigator in several grants held at CREVAWC and also co-investigator of grants held at other institutions including at the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health Centre for Prevention science (CAMH-CPS). Dr. Jaffe is a member of many local, provincial and national committees and boards and has had a long term association with the London Coordinating Committee to End Woman Abuse, the Coalition of Media Violence and the Alliance of Canadian Research Centres on Violence.

Ms. Barb MacQuarrie

Barb MacQuarrie is the Community Director of the Centre for Research and Education on Violence against Women & Children at the University of Western Ontario. She works to promote collaboration between community-based professionals and advocates and academic researchers. She has been an advocate for survivors of violence and has worked on diverse fronts to give voice to their experiences of violence as well as their experiences in the systems that are intended to respond to this violence. She has co-authored publications on workplace harassment, violence in the lives of girls, violence on college and university campuses and has written for local anti-violence organizations about the challenges facing front line service providers and the connections between mental health, addictions and trauma. She is the executive producer of the videos, "The Way Forward: Rethinking the problem of workplace sexual harassment" and "Voices of Diversity: Creating a culture of safety, respect and belonging on campus." She coordinated the writing and publication of the Surviving the System Handbook: Advice on using the legal system if you are a survivor of sexual violence. Ms. MacQuarrie is the Provincial Manager of the Neighbours, Friends and Families public education campaign and the creator of the Make it Our Business website. She chairs the Muslim Family Support Services Advisory committee in London. She is interested in how research can inform prevention of and responses to violence against women and girls. Ms. MacQuarrie is a member of many local, provincial and national committees and boards and has had a long term association with the London Coordinating Committee to End Woman Abuse and the Alliance of Canadian Research Centres on Violence.

Dr. Helene Berman

Helene Berman is a Professor in the University Of Western Ontario School Of Nursing and the Scotiabank Chair, Centre for Research and Education on Violence against Women and Children. Her research has focused on violence in the lives of children and has included homeless, Aboriginal, and newcomer youth who have experienced marginalization, trauma, uprooting, and displacement. She was the Principal Investigator on two national studies examining how girls and young women are socialized to expect violence, its effects on their health, and implications for policy makers and programmers. Dr. Berman's research has been funded by the Canadian Institutes of Health Research (CIHR), SSHRC, and Status of Women Canada. The theoretical and methodological perspectives used are informed by critical and feminist theory, intersectionality, participatory approaches, and narrative analysis. Dr. Berman is a member of many local, provincial and national committees and boards and has had a long term association with the Faculty of Health Sciences, the Nurses' Network on Violence against Women and is past Chairperson of the Alliance of Canadian Research Centres on Violence.

Ms. Maria Callaghan

Maria Callaghan was the Manager of The Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women and Children from January –November 2010. From 2005-2008 Ms. Callaghan was also a National Coordinator for the research initiative, "Intersecting Sites of Violence in the Lives of Girls at the Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women and Children. Ms. Callaghan previously worked for ten years as a Financial Analyst at General Motors of Canada Ltd. where she was a past member and Treasurer of the General Motors National Women's Advisory Council. In her role on the National Advisory Council Maria chaired the first GM Canada National Women's Conference on Diversity in Detroit Michigan. Maria continues to work collaboratively with the Centre assisting with event planning and project coordination.

Ms. Anna-Lee Straatman

Anna-Lee Straatman assumed the role of Manager of the Centre in November 2010. She completed her Masters degree in Library and Information Science from the University of Western Ontario in 1993. Anna-Lee has had an ongoing working and collaborative relationship with the Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women and Children since shortly after the center’s inception. From 1993-2001, Anna-Lee worked as Project Manager for the Youth Relationships Project under the direction of Dr. David Wolfe. From 1998-2001, Anna-Lee was the Project Manager for the Girl Child project under the supervision of Dr. Helene Berman. She has been affiliated with the Centre as a Community Research Associate for many years. Anna-Lee has conducted interviews with more than one hundred adult survivors of child sexual abuse. She has worked extensively with Dr. Peter Jaffe, Dr. David Wolfe and Dr. Alan Lescheid on clinical assessments of adult survivors of child sexual abuse, including historical abuse in institutions. Anna-Lee has worked with various Victim Service agencies developing educational and training materials regarding trauma, domestic violence and other crimes against persons.

Ms. Lina Rodriguez

Lina Rodriguez works part-time as an Administrative Assistant at The Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women and Children. In this role she works with the Centre Manager to ensure the smooth daily operation of the Centre. She has been a part of numerous projects at the CREVAWC including evaluating curriculum materials for the Tools for Change project and as a Peer Facilitator and summer Research Assistant in “The Intersecting Sites of Violence in the Lives of Girls” project.

Ms. Dalma Merino

Dalma Merino is a part-time Administrative Assistant with the Centre. She has a Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology and Criminology from the University of Western Ontario and a Social Service Worker diploma from Fanshawe College. She has worked in many areas of the university and is an enthusiastic and active volunteer in our London community offering her time and skills as a Probation counselor.

Ms. Marcie Campbell

Marcie Campbell received her B.A in Psychology from the University of Western Ontario (2005), and is a graduate of the Masters in Counselling Psychology program at the Faculty of Education (2007). She has received training in counselling male batterers and sex offenders through her work with Changing Ways, an agency that works with abusive men in the London area. In her role as Research Assistant at the Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women and Children, Ms. Campbell conducts research on issues related to woman abuse, with specific attention to the role of the perpetrators. Since 2006, Ms. Campbell has been the research assistant for the Domestic Violence Death Review Committee (DVDRC) of Ontario. Her role as research assistant includes updating the statistical databases, conducting research reviews on issues regarding domestic violence.

Ms. Joy Lang

Joy Lang is the Community Liaison Officer for the Centre. She brings considerable experience to this position including her role as the founding Director of the Chatham Kent Women's Centre Inc. for 21 years (1979-2000). She was actively involved in enhancing services and training related to woman abuse in her county and across the province of Ontario. Ms. Lang was a founding Director of the Chatham-Kent County Task Force on Family Violence and the Chatham-Kent County Child Abuse Co-ordinating Committee. She has continued to be involved in the areas of woman abuse, sexual harassment, homelessness and domestic violence through her participation in research and clinical services at the Centre for Children and Families in the Justice System of the London Family Court Clinic, the Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women and Children at the University of Western Ontario, the London Homeless Coalition and The London Co-ordinating Committee to End Woman Abuse.

How do students feel about their work with CREVAWC?

"Working with the Centre has really helped me out in many ways. It has broadened my research skills and opened my eyes to many different areas of importance. The Centre always has several different projects going on at once and there is always a way to help out and get involved. The Centre and its resources have made the completion of my thesis on Cyberbullying possible. When applying for jobs for the future, I believe that putting the Centre on my resume will be greatly beneficial because it is regarded highly in the area of research and community outreach."

Kara Brooks, M.Ed

"As a recent graduate from the Faculty of Education at the University of Western Ontario having the opportunity to work in the Centre for Research and Education on Violence against Women and Children was an amazing experience. The research I worked on with regards to parent engagement, bullying and violence prevention certainly helped me build on what I learned in Teacher's College and has been invaluable in my new teaching career. The work that is done by the Centre is incredibly valuable and I felt very fortunate to be a small part of such a well run organization."

Kent Van Dyk, BA, B.Ed., OCT

“I was involved with the Centre for Research and Education on Violence Against Women and Children as a result of my Master's thesis: Investigating factors placing children at risk for homicide in the context of domestic violence. Through my time with the centre, it became evident just how passionate the centre employees are about this topic; a passion which is truly contagious. Not only did I personally gain a lot of experience completing my research through the Centre but I really became connected to this field. Thank you for giving me this opportunity and continuing this essential work”.

Leslie Hamilton, M.Ed

COMMUNITY AND ACADEMIC RESEARCH ASSOCIATES

In keeping with our commitment to collaborative research partnerships between diverse communities and the academic community, the Centre has established two affiliations: Community Research Associates and Academic Research Associates.

These Research Associate positions provide an affiliation to the Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women and Children, and to the University of Western Ontario. These positions formalize the relationship between those who recognize the many contributions to the work of the Centre made by diverse community members and academic researchers.

The Centre reviews and accepts Research Associates for a renewable three year term on an ongoing basis which must be approved by the Centre's Advisory Board.

Currently the Centre has affiliations with fourteen Academic Research Associates and nine Community Research Associates.

Benefits and Privileges attached to Research Associate Status:

Research Associate status with the Centre allows for the following benefits and privileges:

- Affiliation with a dynamic research centre of academic and community partners committed to social justice and anti-violence work
- Web space
- Privileges at Western and Fanshawe libraries
- Email access
- Access to student research assistance through the university's Work-Study program

Contributions/Expectations:

Research Associates are expected to contribute to the work of the Centre in some of the following ways:

- Seek partnerships with faculty and community groups for anti-violence education and research projects
- Involve your students and/or your community agency in Centre projects and activities

- Acknowledge the Centre in any research reports or publications undertaken in collaboration with the Centre
- Participate in CREVAWC community grants program
- Review submissions for the Centre publication series and/or community grants program
- Participate in annual Research Day
- Potential involvement in other Centre activities, committees and projects

The Centre is governed by a Management Committee that reports to the Dean of Education. The Management Committee is responsible for overseeing the direction and management of CREVAWC as well as supporting the goals of CREVAWC and facilitating its initiatives as a faculty-based centre within the university.

Responsibilities of the Management Committee:

- Develop and approve a 3-year project plan and budget.
- Monitor the implementation of the plan.
- Develop and approve the annual budget.
- Approve the annual report and recommend it to the Dean for approval.
- Develop a communications strategy.
- Identify fund raising priorities.
- Develop strategies to increase the integration of the Centre into the Faculty of Education through shared initiatives and resources.
- Consult with the Advisory Committee on emerging and ongoing initiatives.

The Management Committee will meet at least three times per year (fall, winter and spring) and more often if necessary.

ADVISORY BOARD

The Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women and Children was founded as a collaborative venture among the University of Western Ontario, Fanshawe College and the London Coordinating Committee to End Women Abuse. When the Centre was first established in 1992, it had a Board that represented the founding partners and board members were involved in developing the centre including active involvement in budget and personnel decisions. Since 2001 when the Centre joined the Faculty of Education at the University of Western Ontario, the Board's role has become more of an advisory function with the management left to UWO and the centre administrative team.

The Advisory Board is responsible for:

- Providing advice on how the Centre promotes and develops community-centred action research guided by feminist principles, recognizing the relationship between violence against women and children and the context of systemic inequality and injustice in which it thrives
- Meeting a minimum of three times per year
- Providing advice about research activities to ensure they are relevant to community concerns and the diverse nature of all the communities affected by violence against women and children
- Providing advice to ensure the activities of the Centre are committed to collaboration in local, national and international research initiatives by maintaining links with the founding partners, community based organizations in London and the Alliance of Research Centres
- Providing advice regarding appropriate recognition of contributions made by researchers, students and community partners
- Receiving reports from the Academic Director, the Community Director, the Centre Manager, and the Dean of Education
- Informing the general public about the research contributions of the Centre
- Advising the relevant faculty appointment committee on the appointment of the Academic Director and the Community Director to the Dean of Education.
- Advising the relevant faculty appointment committee on the appointment of the Scotiabank Chair
- Recommending the appointment of new Research Associates (academic and community) to the Centre Directors.

PUBLIC & PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

Neighbours Friends and Families

Neighbours, Friends and Families is a public education campaign to raise awareness of the signs of woman abuse so that those close to an at-risk woman or an abusive man can help. Funding for this campaign has been provided through the Ontario Women's Directorate. To date, there are more than 175 communities utilizing NFF campaigns to educate people about the warning signs of domestic violence, how to talk to an abusive man, and how to assist an abused woman with safety planning. More information about the NFF campaign is available at www.neighboursfriendsandfamilies.ca

This year Community Coordinators delivered 118 NFF one hour presentations across the province reaching 3,100 individuals. Trainers from CREVAWC delivered 70 training sessions reaching 2,168 individuals, with a total of 5,268 individuals impacted.

Evaluations of the one hour presentations found that:

- 89.2% of people felt prepared to identify the warning signs and risk factors of woman abuse
- 87.6% of people felt ready to provide referrals
- 88% of people felt empowered to provide other supports

And of the training workshops delivered by CREVAC trainers, ranging from one to two days, following the training, individuals reported:

- 88.8% of people felt they were prepared to educate about identifying warning signs
- 91.2% of people felt better able to educate about providing referrals
- 88.8% of people felt empowered to educate about providing other supports

When asked about the perceived success in meeting training objectives, the following results were noted by those individuals who either agreed or strongly agreed that the presentation helped:

- 89% of people felt the training helped them recognize signs of woman abuse
- 84% of people felt the training helped them to know what to do
- 81% of people felt that the presentation helped them to understand the complexity of woman abuse

Make it our Business

Bill 168 amends the Occupational Health and Safety Act to address issues of workplace harassment and violence. Make it our Business utilizes principals from the Neighbours Friends and Families at Work program to teach employers, managers, supervisors, human resource professionals and other workplace people to recognize, respond and refer in situations of workplace domestic violence. Three training options are available:

Level 1 - Provide information

Level 2 - Increase understanding

Level 3 – Lasting Organizational Change

More information regarding training options are available at: www.makeitourbusiness.com

Consultations

The Centre is called upon frequently to consult with provincial and federal senior staff and committees on policy and legislative changes. Centre members also consult with agencies, journalists and students across Canada seeking updated resources and research on violence against women and children. Examples of consultations provided this year include:

Dr. Jaffe offered expert advice on a Dangerous Offender application as requested by a Crown Attorney in Edmonton in July 2010. Dr. Jaffe continues to provide expert advice as a member of the Domestic Violence Death Review Committee for the Coroner’s office of Ontario.

Dr. Berman participated in a National Roundtable Consultation for the Canadian Institute of Health Research (CIHR) Institute on Gender and Health regarding the development of the Violence, Gender and Health Research agenda in Ottawa in January 2010. Dr. Berman also provided consultation to the Ontario Women’s Directorate regarding the Sexual Violence Action Plan.

Ms. MacQuarrie has offered numerous consultations regarding Bill 168 at both the local and provincial level. Ms. MacQuarrie consulted with Project ENVISION regarding the evaluation of sexual assault programming in New York City. She also participated in a telephone interview with a doctoral student from the University of Sydney regarding the anti-violence movement in Canada and how workplace bullying has emerged as an occupational health and safety issue and come to be regulated in Ontario. Ms. MacQuarrie met with Minister Broten regarding the Neighbours, Friends and Families campaign and discussed social innovation on March 31, 2011. She also consulted with the Ontario Federation of Labour regarding the Make It Our Business resources and union responsibilities under new Occupational Health and Safety Act provisions.

In February 2011 the Centre staff and faculty met with a group from Belgium who were looking for information to support their project titled “An inter and multidisciplinary approach of tackling domestic violence”.

Conferences and Think Tanks

Reducing the risk of lethal violence forum: Collaboration in threat assessment & risk management: From theory to practice; February 7-9, 2010

The Centre hosted the “Reducing the risk of lethal violence” forum at the Hamilton Convention Centre in Hamilton, ON, February 7-9, 2010. Funding was provided by the Ontario Women’s Directorate, Government of Ontario.

Each Domestic Violence Community Coordinating Committee (DVCCC) in Ontario was invited to send four representatives to the forum consisting of two community representatives and two justice representatives. Representatives from select provincial organizations were also invited to attend. Of the 49 coordinating committees in Ontario, 48 committees and 9 provincial organizations were represented at the forum. In total, 270 people registered for the forum.

This forum provided members of the justice and community sectors an opportunity to come together to learn more about high-risk domestic violence cases and to strategize ways of working more together more effectively to prevent domestic homicides. Forum evaluations indicated that people found the information very relevant and applicable to their work. People found the discussion aspects of the forum to be very helpful and there was an expressed need for further training regarding collaboration and information sharing.

Moving Forward: Reducing the risk of lethal violence through collaborative threat assessment and risk management, October 26-27, 2010

A follow-up event to the February forum was hosted at the Hilton Hotel October 26-27, 2010 with funding from the Ontario Women’s Directorate. Each coordinating committee was invited to send two representatives to the event to enhance the information and discussion which occurred at the first event. More than 160 people attended the event and heard presentations from speakers from across Canada regarding threat assessment tools, collaboration, information sharing and working with underserved populations. Evaluations from this event indicate that further specialized training is required regarding threat assessment tools and collaboration from a regional perspective.

National Think Tank on the Prevention of Domestic Homicides, October 24-26, 2010

The Centre hosted a National Think Tank on the Prevention of Domestic Homicides at the Windermere Manor in London, ON, October 24-26, 2010. Funding for this event was provided by Justice Canada. Forty people attended the Think Tank representing each province and territory in Canada, as well as federal representatives. The Think Tank provided participants the opportunity to share emerging prevention practices occurring across Canada and discussion focused on developing a national strategy for domestic homicide prevention. A number of agencies and individuals identified a desire to partner in further initiatives to move forward a national strategy.

Child Sexual Abuse Prevention Think Tank, November 11-12, 2010

The Child Sexual Abuse Think Tank was held at Windermere Manor, November 11-12, 2010 with funding from Justice Canada. An afternoon open forum was held at Althouse College, Faculty of Education where Dr. David Finkelhor offered a plenary speech regarding child sexual abuse. More than 150 people attended the afternoon forum. Dr. Finkelhor was also a key presenter at the Child Sexual Abuse think tank where 23 people from across Canada came together to discuss current child sexual abuse prevention strategies and offered ideas for a national child abuse prevention strategy.

COMMUNITY AWARDS AND GRANTS

Scotiabank Community Research Internship

Through the generous support of Scotiabank, the Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women and Children is able to offer one student internship annually, to an eligible full-time undergraduate or graduate student at the University of Western Ontario. This student, selected by the community organization, will work together on a project that has been designed by the organization.

The student intern is awarded $5,000 and the collaborating agency is awarded $2,150.

Scotiabank Community Research Grants

Community research grants are supported through funding from Scotiabank. CREVAWC funds research and action projects that explicitly aim to contribute to the understanding, documentation, analysis, and prevention of the social problem of violence against women and children. Research projects funded by the Scotiabank community grants program must include a gender analysis of relevant issues. We are particularly interested in projects based on research partnerships. We strongly encourage applications that link theory and practice, and that clearly spell out the practical and policy implications of the proposed projects.

Three research grants up to $5,000 each will be awarded annually to community organizations or to individuals who are supported by one or more community organizations with which the Centre has a collaborative or working relationship. Proposals for research that will evaluate or develop the current work of organizations engaged in anti-violence work will be considered.
